Because they are digital files, teachers or students can use a keyboard to type information directly into the text boxes on the Frames TM. Likewise, you can email copies of the Frames TM to students, so they can use them when completing assignments outside of the classroom, and students can submit the completed work electronically.

When you develop a Frames TM for specific instructional units, you can save your completed (or partially completed) Frames TM to a folder that contains other related unit information and files.

The Power Point versions are ideal for use with White Boards, Promethium
